To whom it may concern:

I am writing in response to a Handshake post seeking data science interns. I believe I have the passion, enthusiasm, and qualifications to build an innovative online system that would suit and adapt to each individual's needs.

For the past year, I have been working as a web developer intern for the Research department at Stony Brook University. By using the content management system Drupal, I have become familiar with developing feeds to import data from XML files to saturate a page with data and words. Furthermore, Java has been the main programming language for most of my major classes in the past few years, and so I have full confidence in my ability to code with it.

Working at Knewton would allow me to access an entirely different dimension of computer knowledge and push me to understand dynamic data structures better.

An attached copy of my resume will be provided with this letter. Please take a moment to review my qualifications and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,
Po Yiu Ho
